

Dear Recruitment Team,

I have always wanted to be in a space where my contribution led to worldwide innovations and solutions for all entrepreneurs. To do this, I have to start from my continent, with a firm leading continental revolution, such as Brooi. The responsibilities listed on the job posting are ones that I am ready to take on, with my applauded expertise.

I have 3 years experience coding in HTML, CSS and JavaScript, while also coding in React and Next JS for over a year respectively. I have work experience for an e-commerce business (The Bld Brand), handling the frontend from inception to completion using React & Redux and tracking changes through version control technology. Not only that, but implementing the UI/UX design perfectly.

I have further sharpened my skills, paying microscopic attention to Unit Testing, Typescript, and Next JS. To prove my keenness and competence, I have submitted code to firms like MLH and Goldman Sachs which have been passed worthy for further interviews.

Thus far, I can ascertain that my goals and preparation align with that of your establishment, putting Africa on the digital map is a brilliant place to start as an intern with eyes on the full time role.

Yours faithfully,
Olaleye Fuad.
